

I was outraged by the recent TV reports that the strong Wisconsin No-Call laws were in jeopardy. I don't want telemarketers calling my home, period. If I want to purchase a product or service I'll go looking for them. The whole concept of marketers pestering the general public about a product that they don't want is harassment! The fact that 80% of Wisconsin households have signed on to the no call list speaks volumes. We don't want these calls! If we want a product or service we will call them.
